“President Grant” by Artist Reed Cardwell

Reed Cardwell is known for his strong figurative abstract paintings. With his aggressive use of color, Reed transforms raw emotion into human form. Born in San Diego, Reed is an alumnus of Grant School (Class of '76), and has made his living as a painter and teacher in fine arts since 1988. Reed learned the importance of painting ... “not what you see, but paint what you prefer to see,” which he continues to maintain as his current philosophy in painting and teaching.
